

Finding God's Frequency

Pastor Eddie Ildefonso

People use all kinds of methods to make decisions. Far too many Christians choose to say, "Lord, this is what I'm going to do. If this doesn't suit You, You just let me know," or, "If this isn't Your will, You just stop me and I'll know it's not of You." That is no way to find out what God wants you to do in life.

Having the spiritual discernment to make wise decisions is critical in life. Discernment is an asset that is not acquired instantly, but grows out of a life totally consecrated to and dependent upon God. When you seek godly discernment with all your heart and your motives are pure, He will help you make wise decisions. He knows your heart and He wants you to do the right thing.

In seeking God for perfect guidance, the first thing you must do is confess your sins and allow God complete access to your mind and will. When your relationship with Jesus Christ is right, He will give you wisdom.

When you disobey God in word, action, or motive, there is a hindrance to your fellowship with the Lord, and it is difficult to receive clear guidance. When you sin, you need to confess immediately and accept the responsibility for your actions. Do not wait until you go to bed because you will live the entire day out of harmony with God. If you confess your sins, He is faithful to forgive you right then and there so that the rest of the day may be right.

Are you afraid to make decisions? Do you vacillate between two decisions because you can't determine which way to turn? Sometimes this is due to a self-image problem. You don't trust yourself and you fear the consequences of making the wrong decision. Other times, it is the result of sin that blocks your communication with God. How can you know what God wants you to do if your conscience is not clear?

A guilty conscience is to the mind what static is to a radio. You hear two voices that say two different things. When you struggle between your will and God's will, you don't get a clear message. There is instead a distorted, fractional sound. Your mind and will are divided and you cannot know what God is saying.

It's time to turn the dial to God's frequency and tune into His message for your life. When you do, He will give you the discernment and wisdom required for godly living.
